

Downtown Joe's at the Oberon Building

At the Oberon, built in 1893, guests could buy a cigar, get a shave and haircut for two bits, and relax with a cold beer. After a devastating fire in 1932, the building was rebuilt and restored to the current art deco style. The sturdy Oberon withstood both boxing legend and regular Rocky Marciano, countless floods and the August, 2014 6.0 Earthquake.

In 1985 Chuck Ankeny, great grandson of Theodore Hamms, hatched a plan to brew beer in Napa much the way Hamms had first done in St. Paul, Minnesota in 1865. As a child Chuck watched the Hamms family brew in San Francisco from 1954 to 1972. Ankeny hired brewmaster Schlitz Brewery's Brian Hunt, a UC Davis alum. Chuck and Brian crafted a seven-barrel microbrewery inside the Oberon and opened in 1988 as Willits Brewery.

Locals Joe and Nancye Peatmen purchased Willits in 1993 with third-generation Napan restaurateur Joe Ruffino and retained brewmaster Hunt. Thus, Downtown Joe's was born. Joe Ruffino moved on. Since then, Joe and Nancye Peatman, with support from their family, have maintained the Napa tradition of operating a friendly down-to-earth neighborhood brewery and restaurant. They have stayed true to their roots by welcoming each guest in as a friend and respecting & valuing their staff. Surrounded by an influx of new premium wine businesses and restaurants, Downtown Joe's is one of the last connections to Old Napa; a wonderful place and home to wonderful people before Grape was King.
