

Downtown Joe's at the Oberon Building

At the Oberon, built in 1893, guests could buy a cigar, get a shave and haircut for two bits, and relax with a cold beer. After a devastating fire in 1932, the building was rebuilt and restored to the current art deco style. The sturdy Oberon withstood both boxing legend and regular Rocky Marciano, countless floods and the August, 2014 6.0 Earthquake.

In 1985 Chuck Ankeny, great grandson of Theodore Hamms, hatched a plan to brew beer in Napa much the way Hamms had first done in St. Paul, Minnesota in 1865. As a child Chuck watched the Hamms family brew in San Francisco from 1954 to 1972. Ankeny hired brewmaster Schlitz Brewery's Brian Hunt, a UC Davis alum. Chuck and Brian crafted a seven-barrel microbrewery inside the Oberon and opened in 1988 as Willits Brewery.

Locals Joe and Nancye Peatmen purchased Willits in 1993, renaming the business to Downtown Joe's. That was 25 years ago. Now, the pub has remained open every single day since. Seven floods, two major earthquakes, earthquake retrofitting, flood control construction, and redevelopment were some challenging times but Joe managed to get the doors open, Thanksgiving and Christmas days included. Now those duties are carried out by Joe's daughter, Natalie Tobler and Joe's childhood friend and general manager, Kathy Welsh.

Chefs Bernebe Leon and Gaspar Montoya guide Joe's long tendered kitchen team to provide a menu that is as diverse as the clientele in techniques and ingredients. As Napa has become a world destination Joe's maintains the Napa Tradition of operating a friendly neighborhood public house. Always doors open, eager to satisfy your hunger and your spirit. They have stayed true to their roots by welcoming each guest in as a friend and respecting & valuing their staff. Surrounded by an influx of new premium wine businesses and restaurants, Downtown Joe's is one of the last connections to Old Napa; a wonderful place and home to wonderful people before Grape was King.

Our Philosophy

Unpretentious, friendly, and fun. Downtown Joe's continues to be the place where locals meet and visitors come to feel like a local.

Our Mission

To share our love of quality food, wine and beer with our guests in a friendly, warm, and entertaining atmosphere.

To go beyond our guests' expectations and to select, develop, and empower the finest people.
